Lines, marks, circles... drawn starting with cave drawings and music created on the basis of dancers moving in silence. That was the origin of Inductive.

"To build bridges, a fundamental intention of transcending the dimension of time and cultural determinants. To reconnect through creative ecstasy with the deepest ancestral impulse. A jump into the void where everything is connected. A process of induction, feedback and materialisation of the possible singularity." David Segura

Alberto Tarsicio, a visual artist and musician, and David Segura, a dancer and choreographer, decided to merge their knowledge as inspiration for a creative process based on painting, music and movement.
