Cristobal de Morales, a musician from Seville, was very famous and influential in his time. Not only was his work an essential part of the repertoire of the most important churches and cathedrals of Spain and America until the end of the Modern Age, but was also very prestigious amongst theoreticians and historians. Although he only lived in Spain for short periods of time, his name is associated to the decade he spent at the pontifical chapel of Pope Paul III, from 1535 to 1545. In Rome, he worked as a singer together with colleagues of renown such as Costanzo Festa, Jacques Arcadelt and Juan Escribano. Morales was particularly interested in Lenten texts; with his ample series of motets for that liturgical period, La Grande Chapelle pays tribute to one of the greatest composers of all times.

La Grande Chapelle is a vocal and instrumental ancient music ensemble with a European vocation, whose main objective is rereading/reinterpreting major Spanish vocal works of the 16th, 17th and 18th centuries, with particular predilection for Baroque polychoral production. In addition, it aims to contribute to the pressing task of recuperating the Spanish musical repertoire. It has performed in the main musical cycles and festivals of Spain, Europe and America.
