When Marisol left on New Year's Eve, her family was horrified. Time came to a stop: the woman knew it was the man's fault. Although it was inevitable. They had to find her. They left no stone unturned looking for her. They met people who did not exist before and were now the only thing they had. Clues. Secrets. Abandoned houses. Fields. Hunters. Beaches. The woman swore that she would not give in. A mother never gives in. Marisol is a dog. And the dog will end up talking. She is the only one who realises what is going on inside each one. And moreover, she speaks from the heart.
