Accompanied by Toni Brunet on the guitar, Alberto Alcalá presents a show based on his latest work, Otra edad (2023), which also includes compositions from his two previous albums: Ensayo y error (2013) and Tragaluz (2019). Alberto possesses a highly poetic and musical imagination, and his performance is immaculate and intimate.

Born in Antequera and based in Madrid, in Alberto Alcalá's songs there is a constant gaze towards Andalusian music, with references to the copla and a special fondness for flamenco.

At the age of 20 he was acknowledged at the most important song competitions in Spain. He has travelled three times to Cuba through the AECID (Spanish Agency for International Development Cooperation). He participated in the tribute to Carlos Cano held in Granada in 2015, together with artists such as Martirio, Estrella Morente and Kiko Veneno. He has also taken part in three editions of Encohenros, a conference organised by the University of Oviedo as an homage to Leonard Cohen. In his records and live performances, he has worked with Jorge Pardo, Javier Colina, Toni Brunet and Borja Barrueta, among others. He has collaborated with authors such as Javier Ruibal, El Kanka, Antílopez, Patricia Lázaro and Diego Guerrero.
